

5 WORKINGMEN "BEAT" IT ON FREIGHT NOT HELD BY COURT.

Their Apparently Truthful Tale of Hard Luck Impressed Judge Wilder—Postal Clerk's Unhappy Plight.

Five clean-cut honest looking workmen were in the city court, this morning, arrested for stealing a ride on a freight train. The prosperity wave had not helped them much. They were John Fitzgerald of Boston; Daniel McQuarrie, Springfield, Mass.; William Wright, New London; William Mechen, Meriden; and John Burke, Hartford. After hearing their stories the court let them go. All had come from New York and were apprehended yesterday.

Fitzgerald's story was interesting. He said he had a wife and two children, in Boston. He gave up a position as post office clerk to go into a little business of his own. He was unsuccessful. He went to New York, by boat, a week ago, but could find no work. He didn't want to send word to his wife of his difficulty for fear she would worry. Having used all his

CRAP SHOOTERS EORFEIT BONDS OVERCROWDED

Three Were Nabbed by Sheriff Stagg and His Faithful Gum Shoe Sleut.

AVON NOT FOR GAMERS

"Cheese it fellows, here comes Stagg!" But the boys were too slow, and three of them were nabbed. Avon Park may be a good place to tear off a few football games, but when it comes to crap shooting, never! The advent of the football season brought throngs of young fellows out of the city for amusements, with the gambling instinct all prevailing, though such a quiet little game of crap would go nicely. They drew some and the some drew others, so that there were more watching the crap game than those who watched the football contests. This had been going on for about five weeks, all unknown to the authorities of Stratford, until Sheriff Charles E. Stagg and his faithful gum shoe sleut, who were watching the money in the game.

The sheriff with two trusted gum shoe men, alighted from the trolley at the grove entrance to the park. None of the trio were discovered, until they were upon the throng. Immediately there was a scattering. Sheriff Stagg nabbed one youngster, throwing him to the ground. His two men gave chase. Each gathered in a shooter. Sheriff Stagg confiscated the stakes, which were on the ground. The young men were brought to the Stratford lock-up. The boys were called in each case. The bonds were called this morning, when the young men failed to appear before Judge Peck, in the justice court.

Sheriff Stagg said to-day: "There never has been a complaint to me about the way the football games are played at the park. The place is midway between Bridgeport and Stratford center. The boys have all the room they need to shout and cheer in to their heart's delight, without disturbing anybody. The crap shooting will have to cease."

LAD OF 15 MAY LOSE BOTH HANDS

Fifteen years old Edward Shanley of 130 Linn avenue may lose the use of both hands for life as a result of an accident at the Hartford street car plant of the H. O. Canfield Rubber Co., this noon. He caught both hands in the mechanism of a heavy machine, and when the machine started, he was hurled into St. Vincent's hospital, where surgeons were striving to save the injured members this afternoon.

All statements must be filed by Wednesday of this week to comply with the corrupt practices act.

STATE ASYLUM OVERCROWDED

No Room for Mrs. Kasperk, Who Prayed to Carving Knife.

SENT TO PRIVATE RETREAT

It is no longer possible to send insane persons to the Connecticut Hospital for the Insane at Middletown, because the institution is full. In the probate court, this morning, Judge Nobbs committed Emma Kasperk temporarily to Dr. McFarland's sanitarium, in Westport. It has been the custom to retain mild cases at Lakeview Home until there is room for them in the state hospital. There is no promise of any definite time when the Kasperk woman can be admitted in Middletown.

Mrs. Kasperk, three weeks ago, was granted a divorce from her husband, Peter Kasperk, by Judge Lucien P. Surprenant, in the Superior Court, on the ground of cruelty. At that time Mrs. Kasperk appeared to be perfectly rational, but she told a most harrowing story. After the divorce was granted, she had two sons, who were perfectly happy, and had often said that during the rest of her days she could live in peace. A little over a week ago she received a plumber's bill and became insane. Her mania leans to religious. She would go about carrying a carving knife in her pocket, and she would star for hours on her knees, praying to herself.

BOBO GETS FOUR MONTHS FOR BEING MUCH TOO TICKLISH

"I am awful ticklish, will you tickle me?" said Thomas Kearns, aged 52, to small girls at Broad street and Railroad avenue yesterday afternoon. He followed up this invitation with talk which frightened the little girls who ran and told Patrolman Dan Weston. In the city court this morning Kearns said he came from Woonsocket, R. I., looking for work. He was sent to jail for four months.

Father, Drunkard, Children to Home

Upon the representation of Elbert O. Hull, agent for the Connecticut Humane Society, in the Probate court, this morning, four little motherless children were committed to their father's home, by Judge Nobbs. They will be cared for by relatives under the guardianship of the County Institution. SICKLY CATTLE DIED IN THIS STATE AGAINST LAXITY OF CON- NECTICUT OFFICIALS

Serious Allegation Is Made

Large Per Cent. of Cattle In Connecticut Said to Be Diseased—Commissioner Averill's Views.

It is learned that tuberculosis has become so prevalent among cattle of this State that the agents of the government have made a suggestion which is now being seriously considered by the bureau of animal industry of the department of agriculture at Washington to prohibit the shipment of cattle from Connecticut into other States. It is stated by men prominent in the cattle raising industry in this State that a large per cent. of stock here has been found to be diseased. Connecticut has even now an unenviable reputation in this respect, and should the proposed regulation be passed by the department of animal industry it would brand the Nutmeg State as a pariah, and would injure the cattle business here.

This acute situation, according to General M. O. Averill, State Cattle Commissioner, is not so much due to any geographic or hygienic conditions, but chiefly because of the laxity of Connecticut to follow the lead of other States in this respect, and because of the examination of cattle before their shipment into the State. In most of the States of the East laws have been passed requiring this, and as the result of the requirement many of the cattle shipped to Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and New York have been found to be diseased. A great part of this stock which has been found unfit to ship to these other States has been sent into Connecticut because of the lack of similar laws here.

As the result of these conditions this State has become practically the dumping ground for the country and the diseased cattle from nearly every State in the East have been sent here. The percentage of cattle suffering from tuberculosis in Connecticut is so far above the average that the government officials have deemed it necessary to propose the regulation in question.

MME. STEINHEIL IS MERRY WIDOW

Celebrates Release from Prison With Some Rare Champagne.

NOW HAPPY AND CONTENTED

(Special from United Press.)

Paris, Nov. 15.—The "Red Widow," Madame Marguerite Steinheil, became a "Merry Widow," it was learned to-day, following her release from the Conciergerie St. Lazare after she had been acquitted of the murder of her husband and mother. The sombre prisoner of the Palais de Justice became once more the fascinating, happy Madame Steinheil, who had been made at the last session of the State Legislature to have a law passed requiring the examination of cattle before they were shipped into the State, but it was killed. It is claimed that the bill was defeated by the cattle dealers, who believed that it would seriously hamper their business.

Should the proposed regulation pass it would serve to make Connecticut the dumping place for diseased cattle from all other States, and it is said that a few infected animals soon spread the disease to a whole herd.

Madame Steinheil's first request upon reaching the Hotel Terminus, where she spent the night, was for champagne and sandwiches. Madame Steinheil, close friend of the released widow, immediately dispatched an automobile to her home. It brought back three bottles of rare wine and the verdict of the Steinheil jury was thereupon celebrated at a joyous feast.

"Oh, dear, how happy and contented I am," was the exclamation of Steinheil, summed up her feelings on the verdict. Meanwhile Paris is awaiting new sensations in the Steinheil affair. The day for all engine drivers in the place of the 11 and 12 hour day, which now obtains.

Two Women Killed, Man Hurt in Runaway

(Special from United Press.)

San Francisco, Nov. 15.—Mrs. Catherine Callahan and Mary Brown, her niece, are dead, and John Callahan, the dead woman's husband, is in a hospital with both legs broken to-day as the result of a runaway yesterday. The three were driving in a light buggy when the horse broke from Callahan's control, overturning the buggy in front of a factory car that was dashing down a steep grade. The woman and girl were ground to death. Callahan was thrown to the pavement but escaped the wheels of the car.

Nelson was charged with drunkenness and breach of the peace. His wife said he drove her and the children out of the house. The couple have given the police much trouble. Sergeant Sanger said the man was not very drunk when he was arrested.

Wild Orders "Wild Beast" to a Cage, on Plaintiff of Wife

"He came into the house, Saturday night, and acted like a wild beast," said Mrs. Robert Nelson, of 29 Laurel avenue, referring to her husband, in the city court, this morning.

"She's got an awful temper, Judge," said Nelson.

"Fifteen days for Nelson," said the court.

Nelson was charged with drunkenness and breach of the peace. His wife said he drove her and the children out of the house. The couple have given the police much trouble. Sergeant Sanger said the man was not very drunk when he was arrested.

JAIL SENTENCES FOR SHERIFFS AND OTHERS

Accused Ignored Mandate of Supreme Court and Aided in Lynching.

Public Sentiment in South Has Been With Convicted Men.

(Special from United Press.)

Washington, Nov. 15.—The supreme court of the United States today pronounced the following sentences for contempt of the court in the cases of the men charged with conspiracy in the lynching of the negro, Ed Johnson, on March 19, 1906, at Chattanooga, Tenn., while the prisoner was under stay of execution granted by the supreme court.

Sheriff James P. Shipp, 90 days imprisonment; Deputy Sheriff Jeremiah Gibson, 60 days; Luther Williams, 60 days; Nick Nolan, 90 days; Henry Padgett, 60 days; William Mayse, 60 days.

The six men sentenced today were found guilty of conspiracy in the lynching of Ed Johnson, a negro, on March 19, 1906, at Chattanooga, Tenn., in contempt of an order of the supreme court of the United States, issued at the instance of Justice Harland, staying the negro's execution ten days.

After the lynching the Department of Justice brought a complaint against 27 men alleged to have participated in the jail attack and lynching. Among these were Sheriff James P. Shipp, Deputy Sheriff Jeremiah Gibson, Luther Williams, Nick Nolan, Henry Padgett, William Mayse, Deputy Sheriff Matt Galloway, Bart Justice and Frank Ward. The complaint was dismissed against the other 18 men.

On May 24, 1909, Shipp, Gibson, Williams, Nolan, Padgett, and Mayse were found guilty of contempt by the supreme court in a divided opinion, the chief justice and Justices Harland, Brewer, Holmes and Day holding affirmatively, and Justices McKenna, White and McKenna dissenting on the ground of failure of the evidence to substantiate conspiracy. Justice Peckham delivered the dissenting opinion and it was mainly in view of his vigorous expressions criticizing the action of his colleagues in the case that the defendants asked for a new trial. On Nov. 1 the court denied the petition for a rehearing and ordered the defendants brought to the bar for sentencing on November 15.

No case on record in jurisprudence has occasioned more interest among lawyers than this. In the south public sentiment has been strongly on the side of the defendants.

MANHOLE BLOW-UP SPREADS PANIC NEAR STRATFIELD

A terrific explosion in front of the Stratfield Hotel at 1:30 this afternoon shattered several huge plate glass windows in the neighborhood, injured a number of Italian workmen who were in a nearby trench.

The explosion was caused by the blowing out of a manhole of the Southern New England Telephone Co. In a few seconds nearly a thousand people had gathered. It was undoubtedly due to the collection of gas in the manhole from gas mains in the street.

Several laborers employed in building a foundation were killed and two were injured by flying dirt and debris. It is said that some one threw a bomb into the trench.

PARTY OF FIVE SNATCHED FROM MAW OF SOUND

Thrilling Experience of Shipwrecked Pleasure Seekers Comes to Light

Captain Hancart and Crew of Tug A. H. Skidmore Receive Handsome Testimonial.

The story of a thrilling rescue of a party of five from drowning through the heroism of Captain F. W. Hancart, 33 Beardsley street, and his crew aboard the tug, Abram H. Skidmore, came to light today when the friends of the veteran seamen were shown a finely engraved set of resolutions signed by the quintet who owe their lives to him. The resolutions set forth the incidents of the rescue and express the deep thankfulness of the survivors to the captain and his crew.

The tug was skirting Eaton's Neck, near Long Island on Oct. 17, early in the morning, when Hancart, espied an auxiliary sloop lying a short distance away at the mercy of the wind and waves. There were five people aboard making frantic gesticulations and shouting at the tops of their voices for help.

The afternoon before, the engine had gone wrong, and throughout the night the party had labored in vain to set the machinery in operation. During the night a heavy storm came up and drifting helplessly about the frail craft sprang many a leak and shipped much water. Though they bailed the sloop as well as they could, they were fighting a losing game and were worn out by their exertions of 15 hours when the tug hove into sight.

Even Captain Hancart had little idea of the extreme plight of the party until a few moments after all had been taken aboard him and the worn out party saw the tug. The men were rescued, and when a heavy sea swept over her side and engulfed her.

Captain Hancart took the party to New York City, where they hastened to their home in Williamsbridge. They were profuse in their thanks, and sought to reward the captain financially. He refused to consider this, and yesterday they sent him the set of resolutions which he is modestly displaying to his friends along the water front.

The members of the shipwrecked party were Fred H. Parsons, Richard H. Mackenzie, Mabel F. Martha and Mary Ruth Dobbs.

MRS. BENDAR HUNG CLOTHES ON JET; GAS KILLED HER

Tragedy in Home of Grocer Bendar Caused by Aged Woman's Carelessness

Finding, Death by Accident

Mrs. Kate Bendar hung her clothes on the gas jet, last night. This morning she was found dead by her son, Harry H. Bendar, the grocer, of 301 Lindley street, Mrs. Bendar was the widow of the late Davis Bendar, of 323 Fairfield avenues. Yesterday she came to visit her son. He gave his room to her. On retiring she hung her clothing on the gas fixture. This had been her custom in her own home. The door of her room was slightly ajar.

At an early hour, this morning, her son discovered the smell of the escaping gas. Going to the room where his mother slept, he found that she was dead. A physician was called, but he could do nothing. Medical Examiner E. D. Downey said that death was accidental. He tried the cock of the fixture, and found it very loose. It plucked the clothes on the jet, the cock was turned on. Mrs. Bendar was 67 years old.
